Flerce Struggle May Result in Survival of the Fittent.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 34.—Reports of officers of the National Association of Hoslery and Underwear Manufacturers, which began its seventh annual convention here yesterday, showed that the trade is facing a crisis, which in the coming year may result in only the survival of the fittest.

Garnett Androws, of Chattanooga, Tenn, president of the association, in his address said the trade was in the midst of a revolution. It used to be that manufacturers who gave the best article gave the best weight also, but now, he said, the demand is for light hostery, with good wearing quality.

"Silk stockings and socks two years ago could not he purchased for less than it per pair," he said, "but now they are sold at 25 cents."

Mr. Andrews said that the trade condition had been improved by the Payne tariff. He added: "There is a flerce struggle for existence ahead of manufacturers during the coming year. Those who survive will be those who furnish better and cheaper goods. "Andrews out on slow with the falling market that is upon us."
